

Marked success

CLASSROOMS, lecture halls and seminar rooms need good marker pens for lessons and presentations to proceed with ease. Even a good marker pen makes a note stuck on a fridge visible to all who pass by.

Artline is no stranger to Malaysians, having been here for over 30 years. This Japanese brand is a leading brand in Malaysia and is a familiar sight in our kindergartens, classrooms and even seminars as we grow into adulthood.

Using Japanese technology, this brand was reintroduced recently as technological improvements were made to its whiteboard markers – Artline 500A. The improved version has less odour, produces denser (thicker) ink and lasts longer. With a 2.0 mm tip, it is the most popular variation and can be refilled for countless uses.

It comes in six colours – black, blue, red, green, brown, and orange and is available in two tips – bullet and chisel.

The Artline 500A is made of an aluminium barrel that complies with international standards.

This year also, Artline is introducing a 60ml refillable ink from its usual 20ml refillable ink, making it more cost-saving. Artline has the most varieties compared with other brands. Its markers offer a writing width from 0.4mm to 5mm.

Other variations by Artline include:
Dry safe ink

This marker is suitable for people who forget to cap their markers. The ink is able to last even if the cap is off for 48 hours. This marker is suitable for lecturers who do not want to cap their markers throughout lectures.

Artline Clix

Forget about losing caps completely.

Artline offers the most variety compared with other brands in the market.

This retractable marker works just like a pen and comes with a refillable cartridge. As it has a clip-on, it can be clipped onto shirts or lanyards.

Versatile whiteboard markers

If you buy the twin markers, you will get one pen that gives you two points and three line widths. It comes in a range of colours for you to choose from. For more play, another version offers one pen that gives two points, two colours and three line widths.

Almost all Artline markers come with refillable ink. Find Artline markers in all stationery shops nationwide.
